Industrial Scene Now Is Brighter

High Government Official Predicts End of Steel Strike Within Week or so

By Sterling F. Green
WASHINGTON, Jan. 28—(P)—The labor-management picture took on its rosier hue in weeks today as one high government official predicted an end to the crippling steel strike "within a week or so."

Saying his forecast was based only partly on the trend shown in the recent Ford and Chrysler wage agreements, this official added that more particularly there are signs within the steel industry itself that settlement advocates are gaining the upper hand.

Closely concerned with administration labor policy but otherwise unidentifiable, he said the industry has been divided into a "settlement bloc" and a "fight it out bloc," with the former now apparently in the ascendency.

The White House, he said, probably will make no move for the "next three or four days" but after that "a lot of things may happen." He added that government seizure action is unlikely.

No Elaboration
There was no further elaboration from this official. But it was apparent that throughout the administration there were high hopes that the weekend harvest of labor agreements would help induce settlement of the great steel strike and the General Motors tie-up.

The industrial scene now is brighter than in months past, officials said, with the new Ford and Chrysler wage agreements awaiting union ratification, a threatened railroad strike averted, and the country's packing-house workers returning to their jobs following federal seizure of the meat packing industry.

Secretary of Labor Schwellenbach called the settlements "a highly significant trend," and President Truman was said to be "highly gratified."

Sigh of Relief
It was a sigh of relief, however, rather than a cry of jubilation that went up beside the Potomac. The strike of 750,000 steel workers gradually strangling the manufacturing industries remained the No. 1 concern of the government.

The Ford and Chrysler settlements will mean little to reconversion, officials said, if those companies are to be long cut off from steel; moreover, General Motors is under less compulsion to settle its own 10-week strike as long as the steel shutdown remains a barrier to all-out production.

Another obstacle to a GM settlement, it developed, is the announced determination of the CIO United Auto Workers not to resume work at GM for the 18 cent increase they accepted from Ford or the 18 1/2 cents accepted from Chrysler.

Mention Railroads

Mr. Truman laid particular emphasis on the decision of the railroads and rail brotherhoods to accept arbitration of their wage dispute, thus ending a strike threat that involved 18 of the 20 brotherhoods.

In a statement, the president termed the settlement "another demonstration that collective bargaining is still functioning in this industry."

A railroad stoppage was not an immediate threat, because of the cooling-off time prescribed by the railway labor act, but officials considered the acceptance of binding arbitration as having high significance.

The use of arbitration machinery by 134 railroads, which together make up the largest employers of labor in the world, and by 1,250,000 of their employees, was held by these officials to be a major step in the acceptance of that peaceable method of settling labor disputes.

Strike Briefs

By the Associated Press
Approximately one million, four hundred thousand workers kept idle by labor disputes, not counting 248,000 returning to jobs in meat packing plants.

Major developments:
STEEL — High government official predicts end of steel strike "within a week or so," effects of walkouts being felt in related industries, with thousands of layoffs forecast in next few days as result of steel "famine."

MEAT — Slaughtering resumes under government control, assuring more ample meat supplies in few days; 248,000 CIO and AFL workers return to packinghouses, await fact-finding board's report.

AUTOMOBILES — NLRB takes up CIO United Auto workers' charge that General Motors failed to bargain with union; UAW insists GM must pay higher hourly increases than Ford and Chrysler settlements of 18 and 18 1/2 cents respectively.

RAILROADS — Two rail brotherhoods stay aloof from arbitration agreement signed by 20 rail unions with the nation's major roads; Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen take strike vote and similar action considered by Brotherhood of Railroad Engineers.

ELECTRICAL APPLIANCES — Radio Corporation of America and CIO electrical workers union agree on 17 1/2 cents hourly pay raise; may set pattern for settlement of strike against three other manufacturers of electrical equipment.

Mild Mannered Clerk Admits He Killed Wife

Tells Officers He Burned her Head and Hands

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 28—(P)—Arthur Eggers, mild mannered sheriff's clerk, has signed a confession to the decapitation slaying of his wife, Sheriff's Captain Gordon Bowers says, but hours of searching for her head and hands had proved fruitless today.

Bowers reported Eggers' confession Saturday night, and touched off an all-night and all-day hunt for the members which Eggers said had been severed with a saw and thrown from the car deeper in a mountain canyon than the spot where her body was found.

But after deputies had spent many hours plodding through the brush, Eggers accompanying them, he turned and said:

"Well, it's almost too horrifying to tell, but here's the truth: I burned Dorothy's head and hands in the incinerator at home."

Sifted Ashes
Bowers said deputies earlier had sifted ashes there without success. Asked when he did the burning, the 52-year-old clerk replied:

"Why in the morning, of course. It's against the law to burn anything in your incinerator after noon."

Eggers' confession, Bowers declared, described how he returned to his home in nearby Temple City on the night of Dec. 30, saw a man leaving, accused his 41-year-old wife of entertaining him, fought with her, shot and dismembered her in the bathroom, put the remains in his car and drove to the mountains, where he disposed of them, returning a few hours later to clean up the traces.

Chasing Fire Truck Cost Him

Chasing a fire truck and blocking the path of Fire Chief John G. Lueck's car, cost Francis Matthews, R.F.D. No. 3, Marshall, $25 in police court Saturday morning. The fire companies were answering a call to 627 North Osage avenue, when Matthews "cut in" behind the police car which was a short distance from the fire truck.

Chief Lueck who was answering the alarm in his car drew up behind Matthews driving a pickup truck and Matthews refused to pull to the side when Lueck sounded his siren. Matthews was arrested when he pulled up at the fire.

"Over in Marshall we follow the fire truck and sometimes help the firemen," Matthews explained to Judge C. W. Bente in police court, and it was explained he wasn't in Marshall but Sedalia.

Tydings Asks Conference on Atomic Bomb

Does Not Believe United Nations Can Handle Problem

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28—(P)—Senator Tydings (D-Md) demanded in the senate today that President Truman immediately call a world disarmament conference to prevent an atomic world war.

Interrupting the senate filibuster against the fair employment practices bill, the Maryland Democrat said he doubted that the United Nations action for "control" of the atomic bomb would be successful.

"I do not believe that the United Nations organization is equipped to initiate successfully a task of this magnitude," the senator said, after pointing out that all the remaining great world powers are rearming to the teeth.

Tydings introduced a resolution calling for the world disarmament conference as he began a lengthy prepared speech in its support.

Earlier, the special senate committee on atomic energy was told by Dr. Harrison Davies, of the Federation of Atomic Scientists, that development of atomic energy "must certainly be freed from every vestige of military control."

For Efficient Liaison
Davies added, "we do not mean to exclude efficient liaison between the commission and the armed forces." He said the atomic scientists would not oppose making such liaison mandatory.

"However," he said, "it is in the best tradition of American government that policy be made by civilians. A subject fraught with such tremendous significance to our foreign policy as the development of atomic energy in this country must certainly be freed from every vestige of military control."

Other points Davies made in endorsing the bill by Senator McMahon (D-Conn) to create a commission to handle the atomic program includes:

1. "As citizens we fear unwise laws on atomic energy for the same reason other citizens fear them: we too value our lives."
2. "Any domestic legislation must . . . encourage the international control of atomic energy."

Must Maintain Research
3. Vigorous research and development in nuclear science must be maintained. The use of the fission phenomenon and its by-products in physical, chemical, biological and medical and industrial research, as well as in power development, should greatly enrich our country and indeed all mankind."

4. "The bill . . . attempts to provide the freest possible exchange of scientific information. We strongly approve."

5. "We feel the espionage act will provide as much national security as can be found in a policy of secrecy."

6. "The policy of postponing large-scale industrial application is, in our opinion, a wise policy. . . . Premature development of special interests in this field may prejudice the possibility of international control."

7. "There can be no solution of the problem of security short of an effective international control of atomic and other weapons of offense. And of the elimination of war as a method for settling international disputes."

Comments On New Factory

Sedalia's Community Spirit is on the up! This is demonstrated by such good response during the advanced solicitation. Business, labor and professional people are eager to retain and add to the many gains we've had in the past several years. Home Building Corporation is a "Natural" for Sedalia.

Ben P. Robinson.

It takes Payroll to build a community. The Home Building Corporation, builders of prefabricated houses, will bring to Sedalia employment for returning veterans and heads of families of the type we need. Sedalia should take advantage of this opportunity. The additional $25,000.00 needed to assure this payroll should be easily raised.

Give Enlisted Men 90 Days To Re-enlist

Army Air Forces Announces New Recruiting Policies

Capt. E. J. Hawkins, public relations officer at the Sedalia Army Air Field, released the following information today:

The Army Air Forces announced, in accordance with new policies instituted by the war department, its plans for recruiting former enlisted personnel honorably discharged from the service. The period of time during which men honorably discharged may re-enlist in their former grade (that held at time of discharge) has been extended from the 20 days to 90 days, provided the re-enlistment is accomplished on or before June 30, 1946. This provision gives the discharged enlisted man 90 days to make a decision without loss of grade upon re-enlistment.

Enlist as Ptes.
Men honorably discharged from enlistment status in the grade of private who have had satisfactory service in the Army Air Forces at least six months and who enlist within three months after date of discharge from active service will be re-enlisted as privates first class, also provided enlistment is accomplished on or before June 30, 1946.

For enlisted men who enlisted in the regular army on or after June 1, 1945, and who were enlisted as privates because of delaying over 20 days under former provisions, but who enlisted within 90 days of discharge date, the new policy is retroactive and they will be promoted to the grade they held at the time of their honorable discharge.

After July 1, 1946, the time during which an honorably discharged enlisted man may re-enlist in his former grade at the time of his discharge will revert to a period of 20 days. Similarly, to receive the grade of private first class, men who are honorably discharged as privates with six months' service will have to accomplish their re-enlistment within 20 days.

Other Possible Ranks
Officers, Warrant Officers and Flight Officers, who were re-enlisted from active duty on or after May 12, 1945, and who re-enlist within three months after such release from active duty, will be enlisted as Master Sergeants, provided their re-enlistments are accomplished on or before June 30, 1946. The date of release from active duty is the last day of terminal leave.

In the near future, the war department is expected to offer a special inducement to honorably discharged Army Air Force specialists and technicians. Enlisted specialists and technicians who, under existing regulations, are ineligible to enlist in the grade they held at the time of discharge will soon be elevated to a grade commensurate with their training, skill and length of active service with the Army Air Forces.

23 Die in Fires in 3 Cities; Rerecreation Parlor Fire Today

Blaze Discovered Early This Morning; Damage Estimated At Over $7,500

Fire of undetermined origin caused damage estimated at more than $7,500 to the building and contents of the Herrick Recreation Parlor, Second street and Ohio avenue at 2:04 o'clock this morning. The building is owned by Mrs. Anna M. Kuesel, 1307 West Third street.

The fire was first reported by a young man, who went to police headquarters and said he believed there was a fire at Herrick's but didn't know if anyone was there. Police officers Fred Swearingen, Chris Rau and John Blackstone were sent to make an investigation.

Upon arrival Officer Rau went to the door, broke it in and turned in a fire alarm, while Officer Swearingen was making contact with police headquarters by radio. When the fire companies arrived the fire had gained considerable headway and two cases of shotgun shells in a front window began exploding.

In Front Part

The fire was confined to the front part of the building around the merchandise counter and the backbar. Three large plate glass windows were smashed and several dozen small windows in a partition between the recreation parlor and the cafe were broken out by the fire and water. Several pool tables in the building were damaged by heat and water.

Emery Herrick, owner of the recreation parlor said he had no idea what his loss would be until a complete check could be made.

Fire Chief John Lueck said that from a hurried observation he believed it would be in the neighborhood of $4,000 to merchandise and other contents and approximately $3,500 to the building.

Insurance is carried which will cover the losses.

Slight Smoke Damage

Dust in the furnace at the Yunker and Lierman drug store, 412 South Ohio avenue, caught fire about 10:34 o'clock this morning and caused a run by the fire companies. Slight smoke damage resulted.

Residence Fire

Burning trash set fire to a fence at the residence of Leo Moriarity, 525 South Lafayette avenue, at 2:10 o'clock this afternoon and caused a run by the fire companies. Slight damage resulted.

Enumerating the various types of accidents and how each could be avoided, he revealed the statistical fact that the greatest number of wrecks involve drivers of the 16-year-old status.

Visitors were: Al Gardner, guest of Dick Snow; G. W. Petty, guest of E. A. Edwards; W. H. Morman, county director of Social Security; O. L. Scott, Fred Rodecker and Peter Stohr, guests of N. U. Remshaw; J. A. Power, guest of G. H. Routsong; J. S. Colbert; guest of Jim Denny and Rotarian Emmett R. Jones of Kennett.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28—(P)—An allotment of $81,200 has been made to the University of Missouri by the Federal Works Agency for surveys and drafting plans for possible construction of dormitory facilities at the school.

The studies of the proposed project, which will cost an estimated $2,644,130, will include five new dormitory projects and alterations and a 75-bed addition to existing housing.

An allotment of $5,200 to assist in making plans for a $264,000 swimming pool at Columbia, Mo., was also announced.

Treated Like All Japanese

OMI HACHIMAN, Japan, Jan. 28—(P)—An American who renounced his citizenship and became a Japanese subject in 1937 sometimes went hungry during the war and was watched by the authorities, but he said he suffered no physical violence.

"I suffered no more, and often less, than the average Japanese by birth," said William Merrill Vories, 65, graduate of Colorado College, Colorado Springs. Vories was born Oct. 28, 1880 in Leavenworth, Kas.

"My naturalization was respected by most people I came into contact with," he said in an interview.

"I feel pretty sure that officials, as well as people in general, knew I always had been opposed to the war and probably some feared I would have a troublesome influence upon potential soldiers."

Vories was referring to the Omi Brotherhood in Omi Hachiman, a missionary movement which he described as a demonstration of Christian democracy and which he founded in 1907. The brotherhood engages in philanthropic, religious, industrial and architectural activities, operates its own schools, hospital, workshop and chapel.

Vories has resided in Japan since 1915. He married Maki Hitotsuyanagi, only daughter of a Japanese nobleman, in 1919. They have no children.

John T. Martin Back To Practice Feb. 1

Martin, a member of the law firm of Montgomery, Martin, Salter and Montgomery, will return to Sedalia and resume his practice with the firm on Feb. 1.

Double Trouble

CHICAGO, Jan. 28—(P)—Lester Belgrave got a ticket for failing to renew his auto safety sticker. A few hours later, on another street, he was stopped again and questioned about the same offense.

"This is persecution," Belgrave declared. "What about that ticket you gave me on Stony Island avenue?"

You gave me on Stony Island avenue twin brother, Warren," said Patrolman Chester Doonan. "He's a traffic officer over there. Go ahead, Buddy, one ticket is enough. But don't forget your sticker."

"Must" Legislation

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28—(P)—The house came to grips today with the first piece of White House "must" legislation to reach the floor of either chamber since President Truman's radio appeal to the people.

The issue is when the U. S. employment service shall be returned to state control.

Ten Die in Kansas City Apartment House Fire; Four In St. Louis Blaze

OKLAHOMA CITY, Jan. 28—(P)—Nine persons were burned to death and 38 others were injured today when flames swept the main hangar of Tinker Field.

The bodies of the nine persons were removed from the smoldering wreckage of the hangar after workmen had cleared away some of the debris.

Identification was not possible immediately. All nine of the bodies were burned beyond recognition.

Firemen continued to dig into the wreckage, fearing greater loss of life.

Intense heat generated by the "flash fire" which swept the hangar kept firemen from searching for possible fatalities until several hours after the blaze ended.

The flames were fed by gasoline. Not until three hours after the gasoline and oil fed fire burst out of control in the electric accessories department of this huge army air forces supply base were the embers cool enough to permit a search into ruins.

Bodies Under Wall

The bodies were found under a collapsed wall at the south side of the building.

Tinker Field officials estimated the loss would not exceed $1,000,000 divided $600,000 on the building and $400,000 in equipment.

The steel and concrete structure covered 13 1/2 acres and was the largest structures of its kind in the world.

The funeral home to which the bodies were taken said it had not been determined if any of the dead were women.

Bursting of a gasoline hose on a booster pump was advanced as a possible cause of the fire although nothing definite has been determined.

KANSAS CITY, Jan. 28—(P)—A tragic story of horror and frustrated escapes was told today by survivors of an early morning fire which turned an old apartment building here into a raging furnace and snuffed out the lives of ten persons—six of them children. Four others were injured.

The fire, discovered shortly before dawn yesterday, raced through the 28 living units as more than 70 scantily clad residents fought their way through smoke and flames in a frantic effort to escape into the frigid 18-degree temperature outside.

At least 25 of them were carried down ladders by firemen of 17 companies who battled the inferno. Some leaped as far as 30 feet to the ground and still others reached the four fire escapes of the building, an old residence with a large three-story addition which once served as a hospital. Cause of the fire has not been determined.

Victims Screamed

George Lindsay, whose mother escaped from a third-floor apartment, told of watching two trapped victims burn behind windows which had been barred as a precaution against burglars.

"We watched them break out the window glass," he related. "They screamed and tore at the bars, one stopped to tear off his clothing which caught fire. Then, they just burned to death while we watched helplessly."

Those Who Perished

Perishing were Robert O'Dell, 5; Mrs. Rena Hubbard, 50; and her daughter Shirley, 13; Mrs. Mildred Rupe, 26, and her daughters, Loretta Lucille, 2, and Doris Evelyn, 5; Charles Kraus, 47, and Mrs. Alice Watkins, 23, and her children Robert Tarber, 4, and Lorraine Tarber, 3.

Clifford L. Watkins, a railroad clerk was almost incoherent with grief as he told how he climbed out on a top-floor window ledge and, calling for help, was assisted down a hastily erected ladder before he could make a fireman understand his family was trapped.

Firemen then tried to reach the Watkins apartment but were turned back by flames and smoke.

ST. LOUIS, Jan. 28—(P)—Four persons perished yesterday in a fire which started in the basement of the Alpine hotel in downtown St. Louis and spread through an elevator shaft to the upper floors of the four-story building. Fourteen others were treated for injuries or exposure.

The dead were Capt. Ervin B. Schliefsstein, 48, of the fire department, who collapsed while fighting the blaze, and three tenants of the hotel, Oscar Hanson, (Continued on Page 4, column 2)

When Troop Train Stops Marine Weds

KANSAS CITY, Kas., Jan. 28—(P)—When the troop train on which he was a passenger was delayed here Saturday for repairs, Cpl. Charles R. Walters, 23, Ellinsore, Mo., dashed out and got married.

Walters, one of 386 Marines going to the Great Lakes, Ill., naval training station for discharge, received his CO's permission to visit his fiancée, Miss Ada Marie Golder, 19, of Kansas City.

After hurried greetings, Walters and Miss Golder called on Prospective Judge Clark E. Tucker, completed the vows, then departed for Illinois in a car driven by the bride's brother.

Merry-Go-Round

by Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28— One point most people don't realize about President Truman's steel strike negotiations is that he has the definite power under the law to fix wages and prices. He could have rammed an 18½ cent wage increase down U. S. Steel's throat if he had wished.

The economic stabilization act is clear and concise on this point. The president of the United States, it says, "may provide for making adjustments with respect to prices, wages and salaries . . . to correct gross inequities."

It is said that Harry Hodgins, president gave the steel industry a tentative price increase of $4 a ton. But he never made it clear and concise on this point. asked Ben Fairless of U. S. Steel to increase wages to 18½ cents an hour, he had full authority under the economic stabilization act. He could have demanded acceptance instead of merely requesting it.

Some of the president's closest advisers now want him to clarify this point and get a lot tougher with the steel industry. They point out that if a merchant violates OPA ceiling prices, he is fined or even goes to jail. OPA ceiling prices are fixed under the same economic stabilization act which also gives the president the power to fix wages.

Yet the biggest industry in the nation gets away with violation, while the little merchant doesn't.

Two Serious Errors
One trouble, of course, is the fact that Truman let himself be rushed into abolition of the war labor board, the agency which fixed wages during the war.

Insiders admit privately that this was the biggest domestic error of the Truman administration. It was put over partly by Reconvert John Snyder whom Truman insists on keeping despite his repeated fumbles; also by Secretary Lew Schwelbach who wanted all labor problems placed under his labor department.

After abolishing the war labor board, Truman realized his mistake, and begged its members to stay on. Having been kicked in the pants, however, they refused. His fact-finding commissions now operate as semi-substitutes. But the economic stabilization act is still on the books and under it Truman could either create a new war labor board or give his fact-finding commissions power to enforce their decision.

All of which has convinced insiders that the costly steel strike could have been averted if Truman had been a little tougher and had a statesman instead of a fumbler running his domestic reconversion.

Note — Two most important personnel changes, affecting the entire nation, occurred when Truman transferred able Judge Fred Vinson from war reconvert to take Morgenthau's place as secretary of the treasury; and when he abruptly fired Will Davis, astute economic stabilizer. Having abolished the office of economic stabilization, Truman later reestablished it.

Dixie Filibuster
New wrinkle in filibustering came the other day when senate reading clerk John Crockett, who looks like a senator but isn't, was unwittingly injected into the southern talkathon against FEPC.

The stately Crockett, clad in gray frock-coat, was reading the senate journal. He read at a normal pace, but too fast for the filibusters who have been using every trick in the book to stall for time. Suddenly Senator Eastland of Mississippi addressed the chair.

"Mr. President," he declared, "the reading clerk is going too fast. I wish he would read more slowly so I can understand him."

Crockett smiled and slowed down.

FULTON, MO.—Where Winnie Will Show Himself to the 'Show Me' State

FULTON, Mo., where Winston Churchill, accompanied by President Truman, will make an important address on world affairs, lies deep in that mid-section of the U. S. A. popularly supposed to be little concerned over any but its own domestic affairs. But Fultonians have real interest in national and international developments, thanks, to a great extent, to Dr. Frank Lewis McCluer, president of Westminster College. A native Missourian who was graduated from Westminster in 1916, the 50-year-old educator made national news in 1939 when he founded the school's now-noted Institute of Public Affairs. Interest in and understanding of social and political problems were increased among the students, and through them, other Fultonians. The Institute made national headlines in 1940 when it held a national political convention, with delegates from colleges all over the country, at which presidential campaign issues and platforms were debated, more hotly perhaps than at the real Republican and Democratic meetings. Fulton, 26 miles northeast of Jefferson City, is the seat of Calloway county. Its population is slightly over 8200. It was laid out in 1825 and named Volney, but later given its present name in honor of Robert Fulton, the inventor. Its citizens, and those of the surrounding area, raise cattle, mules and hay, make fire-brick and shoes. Nearby are coal mines and mineral springs. Fulton's mayor, Frank Hensley, is foreman of the brickyard's shipping department.

is the U. S. naval base on the Galapagos islands, off Panama.

Day after Pearl Harbor, Ecuador voluntarily offered us a base on these strategic islands. U. S. troops have been there ever since. But with the war well over, Ecuadorians are beginning to get a little jittery about the continued presence of these troops. So also, incidentally, are the Brazilians regarding U. S. bases on their soil. Neither helps our now badly deteriorated good neighbor policy.

During the Hull-Stettinius era, Ecuador asked the export-import bank for a commercial loan. Whereupon the state department immediately jumped into the picture with abrupt notice that there would be no loan unless the United States got a permanent peace time base on the Galapagos islands.

This sent Ecuadorian blood sky-high. Like other Latin Americans Ecuadorians will cooperate in a common cause, but get indignant when someone tries to stay on their sovereign soil, especially in return for a few dollars.

The Sumner Welles policy of handling these things — he was the real father of good neighborliness — was a joint overall plan for the defense of the hemisphere. For instance, the USA would give one or two surplus cruisers and destroyers to Ecuador and send U. S. naval officers to help train the Ecuadorian navy. In return, Ecuador would give the U. S. navy a peacetime base on Galapagos.

The Welles idea was to do the same thing with Brazil — perhaps bringing a token force of Brazilian troops up to the United States.

Gasoline Shortage Hit Lucky 7th, Too

By NEA Service

In nine months of action, from August, 1944 to May, 1945, the Seventh Armored (Lucky Seventh) Division used up more than 3,000,000 gallons of gas—an average of well over 10,000 gallons a day. And at that, it ran out of gas.

In its first 21 days in Europe, the Lucky Seventh covered 620 miles, passing through Reims, Melun and Chateau Thierry on the way. In its rampaging race through the continent, the Seventh traveled nearly 2,000 miles and served under four armies and eight corps. After being refueled at Verdun, where it had run out of gas, the Seventh headed for Metz, slugging away at that Nazi bastion along with doughs of the Fifth Infantry. Then the division was transferred to Holland, under the British Second Army.

After the Battle of the Bulge, the Lucky Seventh was given a brief rest, and came back to the front late in March. Breaking out into Germany after crossing the Rhine at Remagen, the division roamed unchecked in enemy territory, ultimately being assigned the task of reducing the Ruhr pocket.

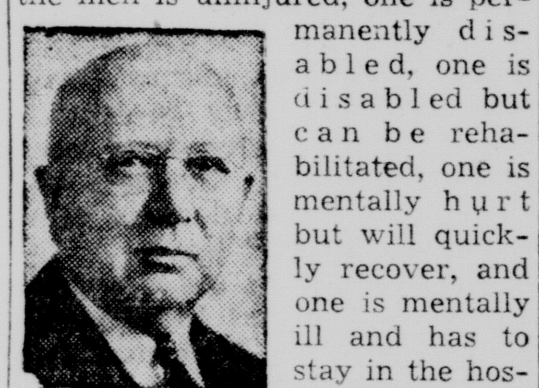

The Germans tried to make the job as tough as they could, but the Lucky Seventh could not be denied. On April 16 it forced the surrender of an entire Panzer corps.

From the Ruhr, the Seventh went on the move again, and this time it made a specialty of collecting prisoners. By the war's end, its total bag of captured Nazis totaled 113,042.

The Doctor Says Disabled Veterans Need Special Help

By WILLIAM A. O'BRIEN, M. D.

Written for NEA Service
Five women are waiting for the train that is bringing their menfolk back from war. One of the men is uninjured, one is permanently disabled, one is disabled but can be rehabilitated, one is mentally hurt but will quickly recover, and one is mentally ill and has to stay in the hospital. The story of these five women and their menfolk is told in an interesting way in a "Psychiatric Primer for the Veteran's Family and Friends," by Alexander C. Dumas, M. D., and Grace Keen, published by the University of Minnesota Press, Minneapolis. ($2.00.)

Dr. O'Brien

The man who returns home uninjured needs only time for readjustment, as he is not a psychiatric problem. The one who is permanently disabled physically must plan for the future intelligently and carefully to avoid the barren life of invalidism. Money and care are only part of the answer, as the future will be what he will make it.

Plenty of Aids
Those who are partially disabled from injury or disease can stage their comeback through a rehabilitation program. They should make full use of the facilities developed for them by the American Red Cross, the Service Organizations, Veterans Administration, and the United States Employment Service.

The relatives and friends of the one who is mentally ill will have BLAND twisted the stem of his cointreau glass between the fingers of his big right hand. He pointed the index finger of his left hand at Pike.

"Listen," he said. "They tried to frame you. But the frame didn't fit. Marcia Clay fixed that. Then just now she tried to get you to lay off. I saw you meet her. You said no. Anybody could guess that. So now you will continue your prying. But you've tried everything." Bland released his glass and spread his hands. "Why not be reasonable?"

"I'll wait," Pike said. "Something will turn up."

Roger Bland stared at him. His bright eyes grew small and he reached for his glass without taking his eyes from Pike's face. He said:

"I'll tell you what will turn up. Another body—very, very dead."

"No soap, Mr. Bland," Pike said. "You're not buying." Bland said, "No." Pike shook his head.

Bland sat there motionless. The light died in his little black eyes. Then he shrugged.

"In that case, I shall present the information as coming from you."

Bland smiled and his olive cheeks flushed.

"That will divide the responsibility," he said. "If they eliminate me, they will have to eliminate you."

Bland finished his cointreau. "They might not be averse to my attending to you myself. Personally."

Luigi was at Pike's elbow with the Planter's Punch. It looked inviting, but Pike was content with a look. He took the drink off Luigi's tray, set it very carefully on the table, and said:

"Is that all, Mr. Bland?"

"That's all, Mr. Calvin."

Be Honest

BOWEL CLEANING POWER OF ERB-HELP MEDICINE

One man recently took ERB-HELP three days and said afterward that he never would have believed his body contained so much filthy substance. He says his stomach, intestines, bowels and whole system were so thoroughly cleansed that his constant headaches came to an end, several pimply skin eruptions on his face dried up overnight, and even the rheumatic pains in his knee disappeared. At present he is an altogether different man, feeling fine in every way.

ERB-HELP contains 12 Great Herbs; they cleanse bowels, clear gas from stomach, act on sluggish liver and kidneys. Miserable people soon feel different all over. So don't go on suffering! Get ERB-HELP. Sold by all drug stores here in Sedalia.

Waterloo

"We're going to have tonight." Pike laid his silver on his plate, put it carefully to one side, and leaned forward.

"Why tonight?" "Put it down to woman's intuition. I've seen Bland and that sulky man with the broad shoulders, and Mr. Hitt—and you." She shuddered. "It's in your eyes."

SOMEWHERE a phone rang. There was a hush in the kitchen and they could hear someone answering the phone.

Then the waitress brought two cuts of custard pie and said to Pike:

"Are you Mr. Calvin?" "That's right," Pike said. "THE SADDLEBACK called," she said. "There's a message for you at the inn."

"What kind of message?" "They didn't say. They just said that you might want to call for it in case you were going out for the evening."

"Thank you," Pike said. "I think I'd better have another cup of coffee."

"Pike," Lois said when the waitress had gone. "Forget that message."

"Intuition," he said. "Just walk out now and go back to Sam."

"I can't," Pike said. "Pike," she said, "they know every move we make."

Lois shook her dark head slowly and her red lips were straight and grim.

"Well, that's sensible," Pike thought. I'm afraid, too. This message upset his plans a little. He was going to talk with Miss Felton at the library. Then he was going to look up Mary Butler's aunt in Bakersfield. The first Mrs. Clay might be helpful. If only Fay Tudor and Marcia Clay weren't so confused in their loyalties, they could tell him a lot. A good man with the proper authority could sweat Roger Bland.

It was all highly complicated when Pike knew that the answer should be simple and clear. So far he hadn't done anything. Things had been done to him. But tonight possibly would be different. It was (To Be Continued)

Infantry Hero Wins Fame For his Exploits in Nightly Forays to Capture Prisoners

Sgt. Junior J. Spurrier, World War II Hero, salutes the tomb of the unknown soldier of World War I in Paris.

In World War I, Sgt. Alvin York, a Tennessee backwoods-man, won the Congressional Medal of Honor and was recognized as the nation's outstanding war hero. To find the men from each of the military services whose records in World War II
most closely resemble York's, NEA Service called upon an unofficial committee representing veterans' organizations and newspapermen who also were veterans. The fourth dispatch tells the story of Sgt. Junior J. Spurrier, of three Army Ground Forces.

By DOUGLAS LARSEN
NEA Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON—A name like
"Junior" is a little tough to take in the Army. Sgt. Junior J. Spurrier, Bluefield, W. Va., took a gentle ribbing about it all through training and even after he saw his first action in New Guinea.

But he hit the shores of Normandy as an infantryman shortly after D-Day and soon earned one other nickname—"One-a-day." In the process he picked up the Congressional Medal of Honor, Distinguished Service Cross, Bronze Star, French Croix de Guerre, eight clusters on a Purple Heart and numerous ribbons, battle stars and other decorations. He is the most decorated Army Ground Force enlisted man of World War II.

On this basis and on the grounds that his record most nearly resembles that of famed Sergeant York of the first World War, he has been named the outstanding living hero of the Army would sneak across the line and invariably return with one or two Jerries in tow. He is officially accredited with having single-handedly captured more than 250 in this manner. His buddies kidded him about it and noted that he averaged one a day when in action. The first thing they would ask him in the morning was: "Did you get your quota last night?"

On November 13, 1944, at Achain, France, Junior won the Medal of Honor. The citation describes his action:

"At 1400 Company G attacked the village of Achain from the east. Sergeant Spurrier, armed with a Browning Automatic Rifle, passed around the village and, advancing alone, attacked from the west, immediately killing three Germans. From this time until after dark Sergeant Spurrier, using at different times his Browning rifle, an M-1 rifle, American and German rocket launchers, a German automatic pistol, and hand grenades, continued his solitary attack against the enemy, regardless of all types of small arms and accompanying weapons fire. As a result of his heroic actions he killed one officer and 20 enlisted men."

Captured Hill

Immediately after his exploit that day an officer rushed up and asked Junior if he was injured.
He replied:

"Naw, just a couple of holes in my clothes."

His uniform was in ribbons.
Before that, on September 16,
he earned the Distinguished Service Cross for the following action described in the citation:

"His company was given the mission to take a hill which was known to be a strong point. The enemy was firmly entrenched in dug-outs and trenches. As the company advanced in the attack, enemy machine-guns and other automatic weapons opened fire from the right flank. Spurrier immediately mounted a tank destroyer and manned its 50 caliber machine-gun.

A 3-year enlistment in the Regular Army now entitles American young men to a FULL COLLEGE COURSE or a Business or Trade School Education

By Act of Congress, benefits of the GI Bill of Rights are open to every qualified young man who enlists in the new Regular Army before October 6, 1946

HUNDREDS of thousands of intelligent young men finishing high school have been unable to afford a higher education.
Now they can have it, free.

GREATEST EDUCATIONAL OPPORTUNITY IN HISTORY

Under the GI Bill of Rights every young man who enlists in the Regular Army before October 6, 1946, is entitled, after discharge, to education or training in the school or college of his selection at Government expense. For a period based on the length of his service, the Government will pay his tuition, up to $500 per ordinary school year, plus $65 monthly for living expenses—$90 if he is married.
After a 3-year enlistment, for example, he may have 48 months of education, with a total of $5120 paid by the Government!

Original enlistments are open to men aged 17 to 34, and may be for 1½, 2 or 3 years.

The Army itself is one of the world's best schools. Thorough training in one or more of 200 skills, trades and technical subjects is open to every soldier.

If you are 17 or over, and mentally and physically fit, you can earn while you learn in the Army. You'll get good pay, food, clothing, quarters and medical care.
You'll get a 30-day paid furlough each year. If you enlist for 3 years you can choose your branch of service and your theater in the Air, Ground or Forces.

Since the new peacetime Army will use the most modern scientific equipment, many technical grades will be open, with higher pay and rapid advancement.

Sports Roundup

By Hugh Fullerton, Jr.

NEW YORK, Jan. 28—(P)—While Sonja Henie's gaudy show was warming the Garden ice, the hockey mob gathered in Frank Boucher's office to toss a few words around. . . Someone mentioned young Leo Reise, whose play in the United States league recently earned him promotion to the Chicago Blackhawks and asked: "Is he the first junior in big league hockey?" . . . The combined memories of those present could bring out only three other big leaguers whose fathers also had played National league hockey — Lynn and Muzz Patrick, Lester's sons, and Ted Lindsey, whose dad, Bert, was a famous old-time goalie. . . Then there's Frank Boucher, Jr., nephew of the more famous Frank. He appeared headed for the major league when the war came along. . . "Funny thing about that," Boucher commented, "My dad was a famous football player with the Ottawa rough riders but he never played hockey. He had five boys who played football but turned out to be professional hockey players."

Playing the Field

And the discussion turned to other sports and a call to Historian Ernie Lanigan elicited the names of five major league baseball players whose fathers also had been big leaguers — Jim Bagby, Jr., Eddie Collins, Jr., Billy Sullivan, Charley Gilbert and Earl Mack. . . Numerous father-son combinations in football and boxing were recalled but none in which both had really reached the top. . . In golf Joe Kirkwood, Jr., followed his dad's tournament trail and Walter Hagen, Jr., was a good college player. . . Turning to tennis they listed Dorothy Bundy, a top-flight player whose mother was a national champion. . . "Tennis," exclaimed an enthusiastic if misinformed hockey expert, "How about Bill Tilden? He's still playing and he's old enough to be his own father." . . That broke up the discussion.

Monday Matinee

A bill before the Massachusetts legislature would legalize night horse racing, which would make it very tough on night baseball in Boston. . . Four players on the Salt Lake City team of the American (strictly AAU) basketball league have jobs in southern Idaho and travel to Salt Lake City by air twice a week to practice in addition to commuting for home games and making the road trips. . . Lt. Comdr. Morris Gross, who coached San Diego State when it won the national intercollegiate basketball tournament, is in line for the cage coaching job at Santa Clara U. . . Wyoming's Ev Shelton says he played defensive halfback behind Steve Owen at Phillips U. for five years and never made a tackle. Steve took care of everything. . .

Radar and Weep

Now that contact with the moon has been established, the New York Post's Jerry Mitchell expects Larry MacPhail to send a training squad there. "The fact that the moon is uninhabited will not stop him," says Mitchell. "Nobody lives in a lot of towns in which the Yanks will play exhibition games this spring."

K.U. Jayhawks Still Lead in The Big Six

Sooners Must Win From Iowa State to Stay Close to Top

By Skipper Patrick

KANSAS CITY, Jan. 28—(P)—Bruce Drake's Oklahoma Sooners, already crippled by one Big Six loss in their four games, meet the defending champion Iowa State Cyclones at Norman, Okla., Saturday night in the top conference game of the week. . . The Sooners need a victory to keep within striking distance of the league leading Kansas Jayhawks who wound up half of their season's work last week with a record of 5 wins and no defeats in Big Six play.

The Jayhawks, extended to the limit by both Iowa State and Oklahoma in their first round meetings, will be weakened by the loss of their number two scorer, Gib Stramel, who takes his Naval V-12 duties to sea February 11.

Kansas won't be ruined by the loss of Stramel, however, because Coach F. C. (Phog) Allen will still have Charlie Black, leading scorer in the conference, and other promising lads.

The Jayhawks will seek their sixth conference win Tuesday against the Kansas State Wildcats. The Oklahoma-Iowa State game will bring together two of the loop's best performers in freshman Jim Stark, Cyclone forward who has tallied 69 points in four conference games, and Paul Courty, Oklahoma ace and a 57 point producer.

Nebraska, fourth with 2 wins and 3 defeats, entertains South Dakota State at Lincoln Friday night, while Kansas State has a non-conference date with Rockhurst of Kansas City at Manhattan Saturday.

Missouri will be idle this week.

Hogan and Keiser In 18-Hole Playoff

PHOENIX, Ariz., Jan. 28—(P)—The pressure was heavy on Belton Ben Hogan yesterday when he missed that four-foot putt on the 18th green that sent the Phoenix open golf tournament into overtime. It will be heavy today when he meets Herman Keiser from Akron, Ohio, in an 18-hole playoff.

The 33-year-old professional shotmaker from Hershey, Pa., needed that putt to beat a 273-stroke, 72-hole total turned in by Keiser and to capture the $1,500 first money and the Phoenix open title. It will be the first playoff of the pro's current tour.

Vic Ghezzi, former army sergeant from Knoxville, Tenn., took the court apart yesterday in 30-34-64 — tying his own course record here — to sweep from nowhere into third place in the final standing and earn $750.

The loser of today's playoff, the second in Phoenix open history, gets $1,000 second money.

Holbrook to Meet Newman on Tuesday

Lou Newman, Seattle, Wash., and "Rube" Wright, Los Angeles, Calif., will mix it up on the Pettis County Post No. 16, American Legion wrestling card, Tuesday night at the state guard armory.

The match will be the semi-windup on the three-match card. In the main event Marshall Estep, Sturgeon, Mo., will tackle Bobby Bruns, Chicago, a former heavyweight champion. Estep is holder of the junior heavyweight title of the United States and Bruns was recently discharged from the navy after three years service.

Opening the show will be Vic Holbrook, Hollywood, Calif., who is matching wits with Jack "Gas House" Hader of Kansas City. This match will be the only one-fall match on the card and is for thirty minute time limit.

The main event is for the best two falls out of three with a 90-minute limit while the semi-windup will be a forty-five minute time limit affair.

Jimmy Parker will again be in the ring as the referee.

IN MEMORY of our son and brother, Clarence Richards, who was killed one year ago today, January 28th, 1945.
Since the Lord called Our dear boy away, And how we miss him, No one will ever know. No one can fill our hearts, Since from us he did part; And he was loved wherever He did go.
He was fighting for his country, To help us he did try; Then he got killed in Germany, And died for you and I.
Sadly missed by mother, Mrs. Edith Richards and sister, Mrs. Ernest McLaughlin.

Control Horse And Cattle Lice
The cheapest and in many ways the most satisfactory control for lice consists of grooming the animal with some type of oil which will kill the young and adult lice and eggs upon contact but not injure the animal.
Unboiled linseed oil may be used for this purpose. It should be used at the rate of about 1 pint to 4 or 5 cattle or horses. Apply by hand with a small brush, being careful to wet the hair and work it into the skin, but use no more oil than is necessary and apply it gently.
Animals should not be worked or subjected to severe heat or cold for at least a day after treatment. Never use boiled linseed oil since this is likely to injure the skin of the animal.

Pull Out Board As Kitchen Device

PULL-OUT LAP-BOARD MAKES HOUSEWORK EASIER
A pull-out lap-board is considered by many Missouri farm homemakers one of the biggest little things in the statewide kitchen improvement program. With one of these simple devices, the housekeeper may sit comfortably while doing many tasks at which she otherwise would stand.
The lap-board slides into a slot in the built-in cabinet at a height most convenient for the person doing the housework. This board may be about 20 inches deep from front to back, and 30 inches wide. For most women it should be about 25 inches from the floor.
Many housekeepers have found that a surprising number of tasks can be done while sitting at a lap-board—and with less fatigue.
Directions for making a pull-out lap-board and many other labor savers for the kitchen and work room are given in Extension Circular 522—Step Saving Storage for the Kitchen Work Room, recently published by the University of Missouri College of Agriculture. It can be obtained without cost from the county extension office.

Plan for Remodeling House

An easy and economical way to modernize the typical T-shape, 3-room house so common on Missouri farms is shown in a new plan folder recently issued by the University of Missouri College of Agriculture. The plan is a part of the statewide extension campaign for home and farmstead improvement.
This folder, known as Plan No. 12-710, shows how to put a bathroom in the old 3-room house, and add one more bedroom and a

Many Good Ponds Built

Eighty good, deep ponds, capable of providing water to livestock through long periods of dry weather were built on Pettis county farms in 1945. The Agricultural Adjustment Administration has made available a substantial payment for such construction provided the ponds when completed meet specifications. The Extension Service has assisted farmers in locating desirable pond sites and layout of the pond. The Conservation Commission is giving help to farmers in starting aquatic plants around the edges and in stocking the ponds with the better type of fishes.
No longer do farmers consider a mud hole a pond. They know that a pond must be well constructed, must be large enough to hold a big supply of water, needs

Beekeepers Greatest Single Loss Due to Faulty Wintering to be protected from livestock damage and contamination by being fenced with a pipe taking the water to a tank or tanks below, and it can be well stocked with fish and aquatic plants to make a pleasant park area on the farm for the family to enjoy.
Should Have Drainage
A desirable location for the pond will be one which will allow drainage from only clean pasture or meadow land. Water from barnyards should never be allowed to drain into stock ponds. A common but mistaken tendency is to locate ponds far down the slope in gullies or natural waterways that carry water from a large drainage area. This practice often leads to excessive silting of the pond and the necessity of controlling the spillway by mechanical means.
Drainage areas for average sized ponds should be limited usually to three or four acres with the maximum area for best results being about 10 to 12 acres. Methods of controlling the size of the drainage area. A smaller area is easier to handle properly and lends itself to better sanitation than a larger one.

Purebred Bull Is Essential
A purebred beef bull of the right type is essential. The average farmer is guided in the type of bull he uses by his knowledge or lack of knowledge of the value of a good bull and by the ease with which he can find what he wants. A British farmer on the other hand must have a bull good enough to be licensed before it can be used even on his own herd.
Good bulls can be purchased at a moderate price, especially considering their value over a grade or scrub animal. Experiments conducted by the Missouri Agricultural Experiment Station and the U. S. Department of Agriculture in cooperation with the Sni-A-Bar Farms show that calves sired by a purebred bull were worth $2.00 per cwt. or $11.20 per head more at weaning time than calves fed in the same manner and out of similar cows but sired by a grade bull.
In selecting a bull to use, care should be taken to secure a registered bull that is masculine, short-legged, deep bodied, thickly fleshed and of medium size for the herd. The fact that a bull is eligible for registry is no reason for buying him unless he is of the proper type and conformation. To get the best results, a bull should be at least 15 months old and well grown for his age before being put into service.
The bull may be turned with the cow herd during the herding season. A mature bull will effectively serve 35 to 40 cows. A yearling (15-18 months) usually should not be allowed to run with more than 20 cows and if possible some feed should be given him along.
Calves Quickly Recover
Calves castrated at an early age (before 2 months old) recover quickly from the operation. Calves that are marketed as fat calves at weaning time, or shortly thereafter, do not need to be dehorned. Calves that are to be fed out as finished yearlings may be dehorned at an early age (one to two weeks) with caustic or dehorning spoon. This work should be done while the horn is still loose.
Blackleg An Infection
Blackleg is an infectious disease attacking principally cattle 6-24 months of age. Animals which are 6 months of age or older when vaccinated usually require permanent immunization. Calves kept in pastures or lots known to be badly contaminated with blackleg should be vaccinated as early as 3-4 weeks of age and again when they are 6-8 months old.
